Appendix 1: Data center staff members

The data center operation was established at the Calverton hangar in August, 1996, and ceased operation at the end of April, 1997. During this time period, David Mayer and Deborah Bruce served as NTSB project coordinators, and several contract employees worked countless hours to keep the operation running. Cliff Jennings (Oceaneering), James Case (SAIC), and Philip Goodwin, (Oceaneering) worked the longest stints in the data center and contributed immeasurably to the effort. Other staff members included:

- Donald Allen (SAIC)
- John Crow
- Dave Inglin (SAIC)
- Paul Ledwitch (Failure Analysis Associates)
- Michelle Lurie (Oceaneering)
- Ronan Oger (Oceaneering)
- Ty Prettyman (Failure Analysis Associates)
- Dan Reifsteck (SAIC)
- Paul Selvitelli (SAIC)

Some members of the structures group were essentially attached to the data management team for hangar tagging and other functions. These included:

- Vincent Cocca (ALPA)
- Kurt Hobschaidt (ALPA)
- Mike Kessler (ALPA)
- Joe Rzeszotko (ALPA)
